Give them a try and see if using an e-reader is for you! Should you decide to purchase an e-reader of your own, it's good to know that the library offers several ebook services for downloading ebooks as well as audiobooks onto your device, all free of charge! Take some time to explore your options by clicking on some of the ebook links at the top of the library's home page. ## PATRON APPRECIATION DAY HELD ON MONDAY SEPTEMBER 11TH, 2017

The Trustees and Staff of the Center Moriches Library recognize that the Library has been sustained and has grown through the support and loyalty of our community's library patrons. And, we have always felt that our relationship with the community has been a strong one and that the community's appreciation of the services we provide is acknowledged through our daily interactions, kind words and of course the consistent passing of the Annual Budget and Library Proposition by wide margins.

To celebrate this special bond, we have decided to put aside a special day at the library called "Patron Appreciation Day". This year there was a raffle of four Fall themed baskets with tickets to the Long Island Aquarium and some tasty goodies. The winning raffle tickets have been pulled and the lucky contestants are, drum roll .....

Lone Wolf by Jodi Picoult, review by Christine Dodd.

As is her style, Jodi Picoult keeps you reading by introducing multiple main characters and complex subject matter. Pages unfolded to show a man who has better relationships with his wolf pack than his own family. [Subjects include] Siblings who have secrets and carrying the burden of a failed marriage. I enjoyed my yearly choice of one of her books!

House of Names by Colm Toibin, review by Mary Lynn Gullo.

The House of Names is a retelling of the Greek tragedy of The House of Atreus during the Trojan War starting with the murder of Iphigenia and ending with the murder of Clytemnestra. The novel is divided into alternating chapters featuring one of the main characters, Clytemnestra and her two remaining children, Orestes and Electra. The first chapter, narrated by Clytemnestra sets up the plot for the novel, and I believe is the best part of the novel. Colm Toibin seems to write strong women very well (think Brooklyn - an earlier novel). I found the chapters about Orestes the weakest. Overall, I would recommend this novel to anyone familiar with the story to see Toibin's take on betrayal, despair and loss of fate.

American Meteor by Norman Lord, review by Mary Lynn Heinrich.

I didn't finish this book. I found it depressing. "If love is more than a desperate remedy for loneliness, I don't know what is." That may be true. It may be elegiac, but I don't want it. I need hope. I'm going to look for it in another book.

Tuesdays with Morrie by Mitch Albom, review by Keith Wagner.

A heartfelt story of a dying man and his friend. Morrie, a Professor teaches his friend Mitch about life's lessons and the meaning of life. A good story and a very easy read.

Country by Danielle Steel, review by Francesca Monaco.

This book is about a woman named Stephanie who keeps her unhappy marriage a secret from their children in order to protect them from seeing their family break up, until her husband suddenly dies from a stroke while on a skiing trip and sees the opportunity for things in her life to be different. She goes on a spontaneous road trip to Las Vegas and the Grand Canyon and falls in love with a country music singer named Chase Taylor, who opens up an exciting world to her and shows her what it feels like to truly be in love and be loved.

Never Let You Go by Chevy Stevens, review by Peggy Mucci.

This was a great book - suspenseful - I couldn't put it down. It is about a mother whose husband is controlling and abusive and her plan to escape. After starting over, many years later after he gets out of prison, he seems to be stalking her again and you wonder if it is him or one of the several other characters and why. I definitely recommend this book to anyone who loves suspense.

A Taste of Chicken Soup for the Soul: Messages from Heaven, review by Mary Pierce.

This book provided numerous stories of miracles. People who die send little reminders of their love to loved ones. It was a heart warming enjoyable book.
